Experience Pays: Harris & Harris Wins Big After Previous Lawyers Failed

Lawyers commonly become skilled at practicing in specific areas of law*. Some choose real estate law, some bankruptcy, some insurance defense, some gaming law...the list goes on and on. As with anything that is repeated time and again, lawyers get good at what they do everyday. The bottom line? Not all injury lawyers are created equal.

This simple truth is becoming more apparent as some lawyers are now trying to make their offices a "one-stop-shop" for all types of legal matters. With so many practice areas handled in the same place, it begs the question...how could they do a great job for everyone? At Harris & Harris Lawyers we are different. We devote our practice exclusively to representing injury victims and are personally responsible for each and every case we handle — our results speak for themselves.

The risk of letting a "one-stop-shop" law office handle your injury case can be seen in one recent case we handled. Harris & Harris represented a man who was injured in a rear-end accident on the 95 freeway near Jones. He was a journeyman electrician and was headed to work early that morning. He saw an accident ahead on the freeway and slowed to nearly a stop along with other traffic. Behind him, however, an inattentive driver didn't notice the accident ahead or slowing traffic and violently struck the back of our client's vehicle at a high rate of speed. Our client was injured and, as with many in his position, didn't know who to turn to for help.

Initially, our client retained another attorney who was a friend of someone he knew. The attorney was nice enough, but seemed to be handling

Personal Injury Reminder: You Can Make A Claim Even If You Are Partly At Fault

Many accident victims don't make a claim because they think they were partly at fault and therefore can't recover any money. It's important to remember that in most states, you can still recover money after an accident even if you partly caused it. Your recovery may be reduced by the percentage of your negligence.

the case very slowly and couldn't answer some basic questions. In truth, though he was experienced in other legal areas, he had very little experience representing injured victims and wasn't taking the aggressive steps needed to progress the case. After several months of questions remaining unanswered and his case going nowhere, our client was still out of work because of his injuries and in danger of losing everything. He was recovering from one of many surgeries when a friend told him he should seek another legal opinion. That's when he came to Harris & Harris Lawyers.

From the moment Harris & Harris agreed to take his case, our lawyers contacted the opposing side and let them know the easy ride was over. When the defendants refused to settle, even with such clear liability, we immediately filed a lawsuit and pursued the maximum amount possible for our client. Ultimately, we were able to settle his case for over $3.7 million dollars without our client ever having to go to court. We were also able to set up a structured settlement so our client would continue to be paid for the rest of his life. He will never have to worry about where his next paycheck is coming from again.

Our years of experience and exclusive dedication to representing injured victims are what have helped us achieve successful results for hundreds of clients. It's all we do. From the beginning of a case through trial and beyond, we put the time, personal attention, and effort into each case to get the best
